

Consultation and Training

Last Updated Sunday, 31 August 2008

Creative Consultation:

What message are you sending to your potential clients and customers? Your message helps them understand what you can do for them. Creative business strategy provides the guiding principles for your advertising message. Once developed, any message created should conform to that strategy.

Company Training Solutions:

Our training focuses on the individual requirements of your company or the individual. Do you or someone in your office need training while completing a project?

We provide custom one-on-one and small group creative computer training and consulting services to fit your specific business needs. Choose from the software listed or we can customize training classes based on individual projects.

Training Seminars and Workshops

Interlynk Design training seminars teach you professional techniques used by the experts. Our proven solutions are custom delivered to keep your company on track with today's dynamic world of technology. Click to view the list of seminars and workshops.